The State of A.P. and others . . .Respondents

THE HON'BLE SRI JUSTICE L.NARASIMHA REDDY

WRIT PETITION No.19437 OF 2005

O R D E R:

The petitioners appeared in the Entrance Examination conducted for selection of candidates for admission into I Year B.Sc. (Nursing) Course for the academic year 2005-06. During the course of counselling for allotment of candidates to various institutions, the respondents restricted the admission of male candidates into the said course only to the extent of 5% of existing seats. The grievance of the petitioners is that large number of seats in various colleges are fell vacant on account of non-availability of adequate number of women candidates and that the respondents are not considering the cases of the petitioners on the ground that they cannot admit male candidates over and above 5% of total number of seats. They seek appropriate directions in this regard.

Heard the learned counsel for the petitioners, the learned Standing Counsel for respondents 1 and 3 and the learned Government Pleader for Medical and Health for respondents 2 and 4.

The course of B.Sc.(Nursing) is studied mostly by the female candidates. However, the regulations issued by the Nursing Council of India, New Delhi, disclose that even male candidates are entitled to study that course. Obviously, with a view to protect the interests of the women candidates, the Government of Andhra Pradesh issued instructions from time to time stipulating that not more than 5% of the seats shall be allotted to the male candidates. Such orders have neither been challenged nor been found fault with. In fact, the petitioners also do not have any grievance about it. However, a situation had emerged, wherein, there is acute dearth of female candidates to fill 95% of the seats allocated to them. It was in this context, the Government sought for clarification from the Nursing Council of India as to whether male candidates can be admitted for the said course, and if so, what is the percentage. The Nursing Council of India clarified through letter, dated 11.02.2005, that the course can be studied by male or female candidates and that their admissions need not be restricted to any percentage. In several writ petitions filed by the institutions concerned, it is directed that if seats remain vacant in various institutions on account of lack of women candidates, those seats shall be filled by the male candidates.

For the foregoing reasons, the writ petition is disposed of directing that the respondents herein shall consider the cases of the petitioners for admission into I-Year B.Sc. (Nursing) Course, against the existing vacancies, without restricting the admission of male candidates to 5%.
